Minnie Ripperton

Come To My Garden

Minnie Ripperton - born Chicago, November 8 1947; died Los Angeles, July 12 1979 - sung with an angelic five octave range voice. She began her music career as a vocalist singing backup to Chess Record artists such as Fontella Bass and Etta James, before becoming lead vocalist with the black psychedelic band Rotary Connection. Come To My Garden was Minnie Ripperton's first solo recording, and came out in 1970. It is simply a musical work of great beauty, containing lush arrangements and beautiful soaring love songs. Minnie Ripperton went on to sing "Loving You", in 1975, which was a No 1 smash. She underwent a mastectomy in 1976, and subsequently became a spokeswoman for the American Cancer Society. Tragically, her condition worsened, and she died of cancer in 1979. Her beautiful voice, combined with songs written with her husband celebrating love, remains an inspiration to us all.
