Dr John's music is as hot & heavy, as a sweat soaked humid New Orleans Summer night. His music is a timeless tradition of the Crescent Cities best styles of Funk, R&B and Traditional music played with an attitude of fun and hipsterism that continues to be a major world wide influence.

Mac Rebennack is his birth name, and he explains the Dr John phenomenon as follows, "Dr John is a traditional character, found in every Creole Southern neighborhood, selling sachets and potions. I had the idea of preserving some of the music that stems from this culture".

The tracks on Crawfish Soiree span the entire Dr. John repertoire starting with the good time R&B "Crawfish Soiree" through Professor Longhairs funky "Tipitina" and "Baldhead" ... Mac gets into his unique vision of the world in "The Time Had Come" and other songs such as "Woman Is The Root Of All Evil" and "Make Your Own Bed Well". Plays a mean blues on "Mean Cheatin' Woman" and hits a voodoo funk bullseye on "Zu Zu Man".
